

With a starting salary of £14,931 an apprenticeship in the RAF offers you the chance to gain a UK-recognised trade qualification as part of a challenging and unique career. Not only will you gain a civilian recognised professional qualification, but upon completion you'll also have a guaranteed job in your chosen field.

To get the apprenticeship you're required to join the RAF and need to go through the full application process and phase 1 RAF training, then get your Level 2, 3 and 4 apprenticeship as part of your phase 2 (trade) training. Can last 1 year to 3 years of training.

Apprenticeship Roles include:

- Cyberspace Communication Specialist (Formerly ICT Technician)
- Human Resources
- RAF Regiment Gunner
- Supply Storage and Distribution Specialist
- Catering and Hospitality Specialist
- Chef
- Aerospace Systems Operator
- Flight Operations Assistant
- Intelligence Analyst
- Vehicle and Mechanical Equipment Technician
- General Technician Workshop
- Communications Infrastructure Technician
- Survival Equipment Specialist
- RAF Police
- Aircraft Techniciann (Mechanical)
- Aircraft Technician (Avionics)
- Firefighter
- Weapon Technician
- Driver
- Mover
- Photographer
- Electrician

Applications can be made via <https://www.raf.mod.uk/recruitment/apprenticeships>